

DRIVE FOR SALE OF RED CROSS CHRIST- MAS SEALS IS SET FOR NEXT WEEK

FRANCES PAUL GIRLS TO ASSIST IN THE LOCAL CAMPAIGN

TUBERCULOSIS WAR FUND

Will Be Stationed at Both the Banks and at the Postoffice.
Three Million Dollars Is the Sum to Be Raised in Nation.

Next week is to be Red Cross Seal Week and when the young ladies call on you in the interest of the sale of the seals there's just one thing to do—buy some seals.

City Clerk C. P. Fuller is at the head of the campaign committee for Upland and is this week marshaling his forces for the big results which are bound to come. His assistants are the members of the Frances Paul Girls' class while many other young ladies of the city have volunteered their services.

Young ladies will be stationed at the First National and Commercial National Banks as well as at the postoffice.

How many Red Cross Christmas Seals did you buy last year? Will you buy three times as many this year?

Unless every purchaser of Red Cross Seals triples his or her purchase this year, the creation of a $3,000,000 War Tuberculosis Campaign Fund will not be possible.

The American Red Cross and the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis are making a drive for the creation of this fund because America's entry into the war has revealed thousands of hitherto unsuspected cases of tuberculosis that must be cared for, and because every precaution must be taken to safeguard our troops abroad against the great white plague.

Last year $1,050,000 was made for the anti-tuberculosis campaign by the sale of Red Cross Seals. This means that 105,000,000 holiday tokens were sold. To raise the war fund of $3,000,000 it will be necessary to sell 300,000,000 seals this year, and every man, woman, and child will have to help to do this by trebling last year's purchases.

The buying of Red Cross Christmas Seals is not merely a humanitarian act. It is a patriotic act, and one which shows that the purchaser has the welfare of the country at heart.

Tuberculosis is as deadly a foe to our troops as German bullets and bombs. It is undermining the civilian life of this country and unfitting men for service in the army.
Few Americans realize that it is estimated by physicians that 2 per cent, or 200,000 of the 10,000,000 men subject to the selective draft, will be found to be victims of this disease, and will therefore be among the "rejects."

These "rejects" must be cared for. The men who go to war must be protected against infection, and the country must be kept free of the source at a time when every ounce of vitality and energy are needed in the service of democracy.

"Will you do your part by buying more Red Cross Christmas Seals than you ever bought before?" asks the Seal Committee. "Remember, every seal provides ammunition in the fight against tuberculosis."

ORANGE COLOR IS JUDGED BY CHART

Charts showing the correct shade of "substantially colored" oranges, have just been received by J. P.
Coy, county horticultural commissioner, for use of his inspectors. Mr.
Coy will order additional charts for packers at five cents apiece.

In the past there has been no uniformity in the knowledge of just what constituted substantial coloring, which is necessary if the fruit is not put through the eight to one test. If the oranges are substantially colored it is not necessary to make the eight to one test.

Packers will not now be driven to the necessity of carrying around a sample orange, which changes in color and makes judgment uncertain.

The colored charts are printed on pasteboard and contain, on the back, a copy of the state laws concerning the shipment of green oranges. The coloring on the charts will apply to oranges in all sections of the state.

The idea of judging the oranges by a colored chart is a novel one, this year being the initial season of its adoption.

CALDWELL CLASSED UNDER WRONG HEAD

IS IN THE ARMY BECAUSE HE WANTS TO BE, NOT HAVE TO BE

Does Not Want to Be Classed
With Those Who Are Making Every Effort to Stay out of Army. Is a He-Man.

In the list of names appearing in the last issue of The News appeared the name of Hal Caldwell, at one time an operator here for the Santa Fe, and it stated that Mr. Caldwell had failed to answer the summons of the exemption board.

Here's what Mr. Caldwell says about it in a letter to R. O. Price, chairman of the board:

Benecia Arsenal, Cal., Dec. 2, 1917.
Mr. R. O. Price, Chairman Exemption Board, District No. One.

Dear Sir:—I noted my name as a slacker. It is needless to say this is resented very much by the undersigned. I have received no notice whatever to appear before examining board, but had I received such notice, affidavits to the effect that I am in service of U. S. Army and all papers pertaining thereto would have been properly filled out and promptly returned to you.

Although a very thorough explanation is embraced in this item, it does not look very good to me, inasmuch as that a great number of people just read the headlines and the names and let it go at that.

Quoting from parentheses, "Some-men are known to have enlisted." If these men are known to have enlisted why is it necessary to publish their names as slackers. Why could not the proper papers have been mailed to them at their respective stations, with the request to fill them out, return them to you thereby closing your files. My address could have been obtained from my parents who are not exactly strangers in that vicinity.

While heretofore I have not nailed a sign on my back and proclaimed from the housetops that I was a UNITED STATES SOLDIER, I hereby do proclaim and furthermore I am proud of it. I am not in the army because I want to be. I am in because I WANT to be. When it comes to expressing my views in regard to those contemptible SHE-MEN who are trying in every conceivable way to evade their country's call, well, I don't use that kind of language.

Kindly mail me exemption papers at once, so that I may attach affidavits thereto and close up this matter.

Trusting that a satisfactory explanation will be forthcoming, I remain, Respectfully yours,

HAROLD JOHN CALDWELL,
Sergeant Depot Co. L, Signal Corps,
U. S. N. A.

SERG. CHAS. RAYNER SPEAKS AT CHAFFEY

When Sergt. Chas. Rayner, veteran trench fighter, spoke in Ontario recently at the Masonic hall, many could not obtain admission and those who heard his story were so impressed that arrangements were immediately made to have him return here at the earliest opportunity. It was felt that a larger building would be necessary to accommodate the crowd, so Chaffey auditorium has been secured for Thursday, December 13, at 7:45 p. m.

Every person in the community should hear the sergeant, his graphic description of modern warfare and trench life, his gas mask demonstration and exhibition of war trophies, etc., make an evening of surpassing interest at this critical moment in United States history.

Sergt. Rayner was twice invalidated home. He had four sons at the front, one of whom, Flight Lieut.
Rayner, was killed in the battle of Flanders October 1st of this year.

Another son was wounded a week or two ago and the other two sons are in the thick of the fight at present.

No charge will be made for admission but a collection will be made for war relief work.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to express hereby our sincere thanks to the many friends who have been so very kind, sympathetic, and helpful in the hour of deep distress occasioned by the death of our dear husband and father.

Barbara Plum and Family.

ED FOR THESE INSTRU-CTIVE LECTURES

Given in Cooperation With the University of California Extension. Will Be Fifteen Lectures in All.

Arrangements have been made for an interesting course in electricity to be given Thursday evening at the Chaffey Union high school at

By virtue of special arrangements made by the Chaffey school trustees, it will not be necessary to pay tuition to enter this class. It is open to any one capable of benefitting by the instruction, and will be particularly valuable to all those having to do with farm machinery, tractors, automobiles and electrical machinery.

There are to be fifteen lectures in the course, and these will be illustrated as far as possible with experimental demonstrations with the apparatus used at the high school.
Among the subjects to be treated are the following:

Electric circuits, Ohm's law, series and multiple circuits, how to calculate water and heat units, conservation of electrical energy into heat, losses in machinery and transmission lines, computation of efficiency and cost of power, figuring wire sizes, study of resistance materials, the electro-magnet, principle of the electrical generator, methods of connecting motors and generators, characteristics of electrical machines, electrolysis, storage batteries.

BROTHER OF JOEL L. SMITH IS KILLED

John Smith, only brother of Joel Smith of Upland, met his death last Monday, when, in jumping off a trailer on the highway near Perris, he stepped in front of an oncoming automobile, and was instantly killed.
The car was driven by Martin Walters, of Colorado, who is staying at Long Beach. The body was dragged over sixty feet before being tossed from the machine, and the skull badly crushed. At the inquest, Coroner Dickson said that no blame could be attached to the driver of the car.

The deceased was forty-seven years of age, and came to California in 1913 from Cooper, Iowa. He was unmarried, but leaves relatives and many friends to mourn his loss.
The funeral took place this afternoon.

MUNICIPAL CHRIST- MAS TREE OF 1917 TO SURPASS ALL FORMER EFFORTS

PRELIMINARY PLANS NOW
COMPLETE FOR EVENING
OF DECEMBER SIX

MUSIC BY CHOIRS AND BAND

Churches Will Have Their Programs Night Before and All Can Attend Municipal Affairs.
Decorations to Be Feature.

The preliminary plans for Upland's third annual municipal Christmas tree are complete and at a meeting of the committee named by Mayor Grier Tuesday night, Dec.
25 at 7 p. m. will be the time and hour of the big event. All of the churches will hold their services on Monday night and join in the municipal service Tuesday night.

The only gifts to be presented at the Christmas tree will be a Christmas card, and each man, woman, and child will receive one.

On Christmas night the big tree that graces the Municipal park will blaze forth in all the glory of a static Christmas tree and Fire Chief Manker, who will be assisted by members of the fire department in the decoration of the park, has plans in mind which will surpass anything yet attempted, in the lighting and adorning of the park.

Upland's municipal band will give a concert of appropriate music while the combined choirs of the churches numbering one hundred voices will render Christmas anthems.

The committee on arranging the program is as follows: In charge of Christmas tree and park, F. H. Manker; in charge of the choir, J. Lynward Graham; in charge of the municipal band, Director Fred Wilding, Jr.; in charge of school children activities, Principal Fannie E.
Nee of the Upland grammar school.

Mayor Grier is at the head of the committee and will be in charge of plans in general and present indications are that the program for Upland's third annual Municipal Christmas Tree will surpass anything ever attempted here.

In talking with Mayor Grier the other day he said: "The city council desires to make the municipal Christmas Tree an annual event and one in which every man, woman, and child will take an interest and feel that the event is of foremost importance, and it is our desire to make the exercises of such a nature that all of our people will feel that it is truly a Christmas service and represents the real Christmas spirit."

The general committee from which the program committee was selected is as follows:

Councilmen Johnson, Cavers, Buffington, Anderson and Mayor Grier.
J. L. Grahame and Fred Wilding, Jr., in charge of the musical program;
F. H. Manker, in charge of lighting and park; Miss Fannie Nee, in charge of grammar school activities;
W. E. Westland, publicity; Rev.
Nery, Nazarene church; B. L. Byer, Brethren in Christ church; Rev.
Kent, First M. E. church; Rev.
Stone, Presbyterian church; Jas. M.
Webster, Episcopal church; Rev.
Shelley, Mennonite church.

COUNTY TO SUPPORT A PROTECTION DIST.

San Bernardino county Tuesday officially gave support to the project for the great storm water protection work proposed for the length of the Santa Ana river, from the mountains to the sea.

The supervisors were addressed by Francis Cuttle, of Riverside, chairman of the Tri-County Reforestation committee which organization fostered the protection project, and Attorney Ralph E. Swink.

The county will use its influence to gain support for the Newlands bill before congress and to secure legislation at Sacramento that would permit of the creation of such a district as is proposed. Chairman J. B. Glover is to confer with the chairman of the supervisors of Riverside and Orange counties regarding the preliminary engineering work necessary for the project.

The district attorneys of the three counties will check over the bill framed in the last legislature, but rejected by Gov. W. D. Stephens, and attempt to secure the draft of an act which would overcome the executive's objections.
By the adoption of the Newlands bill, in congress, federal aid would be available for the project.

CHRISTMAS BOXES ENROUTE TO FRONT

RECIPIENTS OF PACKAGES WILL HOLD CHAPTER IN HIGH ESTEEM

Wrapped in Gay Bandana Handkerchiefs and Make a Festive Array. Upland's Quota of Knitted Garments Finished.

The Christmas packages provided by the Red Cross are all on their way to the front or to the cantonments, but any one who did not see them the morning they were assembled and packed missed a cheerful sight. Each package contained a tablet and packet of envelopes, a book, shaving and dental cream, tal-cum powder, and a cake of soap, a half pound of hard candy, two cakes of chocolate, and two packages of chewing gum, a game of dominoes, a match box and a khaki handkerchief. The Misses McQuillen donated a Christmas card for each package which was wrapped up finally in a gay bandana handkerchief.

When the fifty packages were all spread out together they made a festive array, and it is safe to say that each recipient of one of these packages will hold the Upland chapter in grateful esteem.

The last week has been one in which the amount of work that has been going on was apparent in the assembling of finished work preparatory to shipping.

A box of surgical dressings containing four thousand gauze dressings was shipped to the division headquarters in San Francisco.

Upland's quota of knitted garments is all finished, and consists of 75 sets, each set comprising a sweater, a scarf, a pair of wristlets, and a pair of socks, a total of 450 knitted articles.

The knitting goes on apace, and already in addition to the allotment there have been knitted and shipped, 29 sweaters, 5 helmets, 44 mufflers, 41 pairs of wristlets and 6 pairs of bed socks.

KIDDIES TO PORTRAY TERPSICHOREAN ART

At the Colonial theatre on Thursday and Friday evenings of next week, in connection with the big picture, "Over There," which Manager Davis is bringing to us, the following well known little tots are to have a part in the various interpretative dances, songs, drills, etc., which will supplement the main bill for those evenings: Mary Norton, Red Cross nurse; Gladys Bowden, Little Hoover suffragette; Rollin
Lemon, soldier boy; Tommie Harris,
J. Jacky tar; Louise Field, Uncle Sam; Margaret Morrow, goddess of liberty. These little tots are to have part in the program of Thursday evening, while on Friday night there will be exercises of various kinds by members of the Upland Boy Scouts. For this big picture and program only very slight raise in prices is noted.

Jane Cowd in the "Spreading Dawn" is the feature at the Colonial tonight and Manager Davis states it is a picture well worth seeing.
A baseball film, "Louie Touch of Nature," is the headline for Saturday night, while for Thursday and Friday nights, Dec. 13 and 14, the famous patriotic drama, "Over There," with Charles G. Richman in an all-star cast, will attract a great deal of attention. Manager Davis of the Colonial witnessed a showing of the play yesterday and states it to be one of the finest patriotic productions of recent months.

SERVICE FLAG FOR COUNTY EMPLOYEES

A service flag, designating how many employees of the county have gone to war, will fly from the entrance of the courthouse.

The supervisors Tuesday ordered the flag. A complete check will be made of all departments of the county to prepare the honor list.

Several additional employees of the county will be in government service within a few days, for in various departments men are either expecting call on previous enlistments or intend to enlist at once.

Howard Ham, deputy county tax collector, the latest county employee to enlist, was granted leave of absence for the period of the war without pay. His vacancy will not be filled, in accordance with the retrenchment policy.

The crops on the Minidoka irrigation project in Idaho aggregated five millions of dollars this year as against a little over two millions last year.

MANY CITIES WILL ENTER TOURNAMENT

PARADE, FOOTBALL GAME,
AND DANCE THE THREE BIG FEATURES

Is Not Local Institution, But Takes in All of Southern California. Net Proceeds This Year To Be Donated to Red Cross.

Thirty-five or forty Southern California cities are preparing to enter floats in Pasadena's Rose Tournament parade New Year's Day. They are cooperating even more enthusiastically than in the past this year because the theme of the tournament is to be patriotic and because the entire net proceeds will be turned over to the Red Cross.

Those in charge of the wonderful floral pageant assert that it will be a more magnificent spectacle than any that have gone before. Every year sees an improvement in the great event. This year special efforts are being put forth to attain a new high mark in attendance and general success, on account of the worthy Red Cross cause that is to benefit by the tournament.

The day will have three big features. The first will be the parade of floral floats in the morning. In the afternoon comes the football game between East and West, and the day's festivities will conclude with a brilliant ball at one of Pasadena's big hotels in the evening.

Years ago the tournament passed that stage where it was an event of purely local significance and is now regarded as a Southern California institution, in which every community in this part of the state has almost an equal interest with Pasadena, for it advertises to the world at large, as nothing else could, that this is a land of sunshine and flowers at a time when the East and North are shivering in wintry blasts and wallowing through snow-drifts.

The football game in the afternoon is an affair that arouses international interest, and attracts the biggest crowd of the year in Pacific Coast territory. It is generally regarded as establishing which part of the country, East or West, plays the best football.

While all Southern California cooperates in making the tournament the remarkable success it always is, the central management must, of necessity, remain in the city where the pageant is staged. As is very well known, the tournament is a civic affair and in no way a private enterprise. All the officers, committees and other workers, with the exception of the secretary, who is paid a few months every year, work without salary or reward of any kind other than the feeling of satisfaction that comes with the knowledge of work well done. Men responsible for the tournament's success are among the most prominent and busy professional and business men of the city, but for three or four months every year their private interests stand second in their thought to those of the tournament, and they give of their time and their energies without stint in arranging for the pageant.

OLDER BOYS CON- FERENCE A SUCCESS

The fourteenth annual Older Boys' Y. M. C. A. conference was one of the most successful ever held in the south. The cooperation of the townspeople, the high school, the churches, and of every one, helped to make it a grand success.

The whole conference was marked by a spirit of jolliness, but also of seriousness. The whole program was carried out to a finish by the committee in a splendid manner. The most pleasing and best of the whole program was the address of Dr.
Francis, who is connected with the Y. M. C. A. war work. His two talks were, in fact, inspiring, first one to get a better education of the course and meaning of this great war, and the second one to get a better conception of the meaning and causes for ourselves. He is a very forceful speaker, and he brought home the message in a forceful manner.

Friday afternoon the delegates began to arrive, coming from all counties, from Ventura to Imperial valley. They were assigned to the many homes available. After they had inspected their three-day residence they returned to the First M. E. church for a jolly mixer before returning to the dining room.

Coast and General

ing investigation which will lead to greatly increased production in 1918.

ington meet Dec. 10-11 at North Yakima to discuss irrigation problems.

W.H. PLUM ANSWERS SUMMONS WHILE ENROUTE TO THE NORTH BY AUTO

PASSES PEACEFULLY AWAY
AS HE OFTEN SAID HE WISHED TO GO

HIGHLY RESPECTED CITIZEN

Two Sons, Wesley and Harry,
Come from Encampment at Atlanta, Ga., to Attend the Funeral Services.

A large circle of friends and acquaintances will be pained to learn of the death of M. W. Plum, of North Second avenue, which occured early Friday morning, Nov. 30.

The circumstances of his death were somewhat peculiar. He was on his way to Tulare county to visit a daughter, Mrs. J. H. Wagoner, and family, near Wankama. He was making the trip in company with Amos Burkholder in the latter's machine, and was seated in the rear seat with some baggage.
When in the vicinity of Pasadena Mr. Burkholder noticed Mr. Plum's head tipped forward, and supposed him to be asleep, the hour being somewhat early. Nearing the mouth of Bonquet canyon Mr. Burkholder thought to waken him so he might see and enjoy the scenery, he having often expressed a desire to see it. But he was found to be lifeless, the spirit evidently having taken its flight soon after the beginning of the journey, as the body was already cold in death.

Returning to San Fernando, the body was turned over to an undertaker, preparatory to being brought to Upland. Mr. Vedder, the local funeral director, was notified and brought it home.

Telegrams were sent to various parts of the north and east. Two daughters, Mrs. J. H. Wagoner of Wankama, Cal., and Mrs. J. B.
Winger of Oakley, Cal., with their husbands and families, two sons, Harry and Wesley, who have so nobly offered themselves to their country, and are now stationed at Camp Gordon, Atlanta, Ga., and a sister, Mrs. A. O. Zook, of Abilene, Kansas, came to attend the funeral. Three sons, J. S. Emory and Clinton, of Northern California, and a daughter, Arminia, of Abilene, Kansas, were unable to be present.
Mr. Plum had made an extended trip during the past summer, visiting all his children, and a large number of his relatives.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, conducted by Bishop C. C. Burkholder. Interment in Bellevue cemetery.

Mr. Plum was nearly 68 years of age, and had suffered considerably of late years from heart trouble.
He often expressed a belief that his demise would be sudden, as was also his wish—that he be spared a lingering sickness with its consequent burden upon others.

In the passing of Mr. Plum, Upland loses one of its best known and most highly respected citizens, a man whose integrity was without question, his character above reproach. The entire community feels a distinct loss, and extends to the sorrowing family and friends its deepest sympathy in their bereavement.

SGT. J. E. GOODBAN APPRECIATES GIFT

Mrs. Edw. C. Harwood has this week received the following letter from Jas. Goodban, who is located at Quantico, Va. The many friends of Mr. Goodban here will be interested in the letter:

Quantico, Va., Nov. 27, 1917.
The comfort kit sent to me by the Upland Red Cross, arrived safely at San Diego on the day before we left for the east coast. The kit is proving useful every day and I thank you very much for remembering us, and assure you that your generosity is truly appreciated.

Salute to the Flag

"I pledge allegiance to the American Flag;
And the Republic for which it stands;
One Nation, indivisible,
With Liberty and Justice for all."

It would be exceedingly difficult to place in an equal number of words a better, more concise or comprehensive statement of the objects and purposes of the Allied nations, as shaped by the development of the war up to this time, than that contained in the opening statement of Premier Clemenceau at the inter-Allied war council. Premier Clemenceau said:

"In the greatest war the world has known the sentiment of the supreme solidarity of our peoples reunites us in this hour to win on the battlefield the rights of a humanitarian peace."

"We are all in accord for any sacrifices the Allied high command may require."

"The high spirit animating us must be transformed into acts. Our watchword is 'Work.' Let us get to work."

And that is all that he said. It is enough. Work, not words, will rightly direct and finally win this war.

Had the Clemenceau statement been expanded into pages of well-rounded rhetorical declamation it could not have been so incisive or convincing.

The French premier goes right to the heart of the common purpose, binding the Allied nations to a common service for humanity. He strikes the keynote for the accord essential to victory and sounds an appeal for action which is irresistible and inspiring. —Los Angeles Tribune.

As the season for Christmas buying comes near, it is pertinent to make a few observations on the attitude Americans should take toward this holiday this year. There is no reason why the volume of Christmas giving should not be up to normal. To hold that Americans should abstain from the genuine pleasure of giving at Christmas, because the nation is engaged in war, is not a valid position. The wisest, most thoughtful leaders in this country, in public and private life, including President Wilson, have counseled the continuance of the ordinary activities of life, so far as possible, and especially to maintain the wholesome sports, diversions and pleasures that are a safety-valve to the high-tension of this war period. There is enough of inescapable gloom and somberness about warfare, goodness knows. Why accentuate this? Why not buy presents for Christmas, as in normal peace times, and thus stimulate comradeship, good fellowship and cheerfulness and emphasize the thoughtful brotherliness, the kindly spirit, that permeates this gladdest holiday of all the year?

Whatever relieves the strain of this war period, without detracting from the full measure of devotion to the nation that should be forthcoming from every true American, is to be approved. It will go far toward easing the wrought nerves of this people, strenuously preparing for war on a gigantic scale, to indulge in the usual delightful task of making out lists of Christmas gifts and sallying forth to buy them, here in the home stores, in proper season. Furthermore, this general observance of the holiday spirit—the spirit of giving—will tend to soften the asperities of the war period and to stress the finer sensibilities. Let's give, and give generously, this Christmas. Let's brighten the land with gift-giving make glad the hearts of children and of grown-ups, of soldier boys and civilian boys and girls. The merrier this Christmas is made, the better fortified in spirit will Americans be to see the war through to victorious end, with harmony and good feeling prevailing throughout the land.—Pasadena Star-News.

AN American who has spent three full years in Russia assures us that the Bolsheviks are like our I. W. W.'s.

Imagine America suddenly at the mercy of the I. W. W. element, and at the same time seeking to stem a foreign invasion. Her capable and patriotic elements shut up indoors, hid away in cellars or imprisoned in sheds and hen-houses awaiting the subsidence of the political high-jinks in the streets. Imagine, if you will, Woodrow Wilson disguised as a servant girl, a corn doctor or a corpse on his way to Iceland for safety. Josephus Daniels locked up by the American Bolsheviks in the basement of the navy department, and Secretary McAdoo, in chains, acting as scissor grinder for the Anarchist Society for the Promotion of Political and Social Harikari. Imagine our battleships manned by I. W. W. buccaners. Imagine the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor converted into a symbol of chaos and mental and political hydrophobia, and a crazy band of political bandits assailing the treasury vaults.

Poor, torn and distracted Russia! Freed from absolutism she has fallen into the despotism of anarchy. Not to be trusted longer as a constructive factor in the broad democratic movement, victim of a confused and tangled medley of warring factions and forces, she is become the political prey of her enemies and the worry and enigma of her friends. Bankrupting her credit at a time when every appeal of sentiment would have brought her unlimited aid, she flounders in a mire of her own making.

The two men strong enough to command foreign confidence, Russia's mad proletariat drives into exile or hiding, while rattle-headed human jackals prowl about amid the wreckage in search of those who are sane and therefore persona non grata to the wolf pack that calls itself the state.

Such is Russia today. And such is government by the incompetent and politically deranged to whom liberty is license and freedom is contempt for restraint.

We can tolerate no class despotism in America. Americans demand representative government. We want government for all of the people. But we can tolerate no class control, be that class rich or poor, learned or ignorant. Above all, America invites no fantasma of unassorted political idiocy and incompetence.—Ex.

FOLLOWING editorial is taken from the Charlotte (Mich.) Republican and the suggestions offered are well worth considering:

There is every reason to expect our military activities must be sustained for some time to come, by public subscriptions. This county has already responded on one Red Cross drive and the second campaign for the army "Y." closes next Sunday. These appeals are going to come with alarming regularity, until the end of the war, and the question automatically comes up, how can these campaigns be handled to the best advantage? The same men in every locality cannot be expected and should not be asked to do all the soliciting. It is a regular job as every one who has ever done any of it will testify.

What is the best and most economical way to raise this money and at the same time adopt a plan for an equitable distribution of the load among all the people? It is just as unfair to raise our respective subscription quotas from the same few every time and let many others equally able to pay slip out without helping a bit. It is time our war contributions are more equitably distributed.

In Lenawee, Calhoun and Barry a plan has been worked out that reaches every household in the county. Each home pays monthly dues into a county patriotic league and when the county is called upon to help the Red Cross or the Army "Y." the money is paid out of this county-wide war fund. The minimum dues could be fixed at fifty cents a month, and the dues paid by each household determined by a committee from the township or ward. Of course this plan would require a permanent paid secretary to handle the collections which could be made by sections in the country and wards in the city. At first considerable machinery would be needed but after the plan was under way two or three people could handle all the detail at a very nominal cost. Under some such plan soliciting work would be done away with and when the calls come, as come they will, the money will be ready and every one will have helped according to his ability to pay. If something of this sort could be worked out in this county by January 1 and collections started we believe it would be a big step forward in the handling and managing of our war charities.

Building a Community

THIS BANK was founded and is carried on primarily for profit. But over and above that, it has a higher motive, which every business must have to grow into institutional size.

That motive is the upbuilding of the community. We are aware how necessary it is for this city to be successful, in order that we may grow with it; and to that end, we neglect nothing which may advance that aim.

Our deposits are derived from this locality; therefore nothing pleases us more than to be able to advance the business of this locality by conservative loans, by advice and counsel.

The business man seeking either of these things is welcome to this Bank.

The accomplishment of all planned tasks, whether great or small, depends on how you shape your moments.

Seconds evolve into minutes, minutes into hours, and hours into days.

If given time to accomplish a task without interruption—it is easy.

But who is it that is not interrupted? The housewife, the business man, the office man, the rancher, all have two or more things to perform at the same time.

To save steps, mental disturbance; to accomplish results and reduce the minor details of daily routine—make the Telephone be your servant; you have no right to spend a portion of the day to accomplishing a certain task when it can be handled in a few moments by the use of the Telephone.

Happenings Here and There Gathered by a News Special Representative in and About the Famous Etiwanda Colony

At a very pretty wedding Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Frost, Miss Camille Schlieff became the bride of Herbert Price, Private of First Rank, now stationed at Linda Vista. Miss Irene Scott, cousin of the bride, played the wedding march, little Misses Kathleen and Marjorie Price, sisters of the groom, acted as bridesmaids, and little Lela Frost, cousin of the bride, carried the ring in the heart of a rose. The guests, who were all relatives, included Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Price and children, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Jones of Ontario, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Westphal, Mr. and Mrs. Niel Hickcox and sons, Mr. and Mrs. John Scott and children, Miss Katherine Jones of Ontario, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Morris of Ontario, Mr. and Mrs. John Frost and children, Rev. C. M. Greenlee performed the ceremony.

When Miss Camille Schlieff came here about two years ago from Dinuba, Cal., to make her home with her aunt, Mrs. John Frost, she at once identified herself with all the social life of the place, and her many acquaintances have grown to be fast friends who all hope for her happiness. Mr. Herbert Price, of Company K, is the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Price and has grown to manhood in the community where he is universally liked and respected. He returned to his regiment Sunday evening, Mrs. Herbert Price and Mrs. Clyde Westphal accompanying him as far as Los Angeles.

Ide whose subject was "What the war is teaching the church and demanding of the church now, and in the reconstruction period." Discussion was led by Rev. H. B. Mowbray and Rev. L. L. Oaks. After the appointment of various committees the meeting adjourned for luncheon.

The first address of the afternoon was by Rev. Toomey, who ably discussed some of the "Local problems," discussion being led by Rev. J. R. Kinser and Rev. J. B. Long. "Present day vindication of Missions" was the subject of an address by Mrs. LaFollette and Mrs. F. W. Doolittle. Following an address on the subject, "Neglected neighbors," by Levi Chubbuck, Dr. George P. Kennigott talked on the subject, "Forward Congregationalists." Reports of committees and other business preceded adjournment.

Delightful Supper Dance—

The Hotpoint club rooms were most attractively decorated last Friday night with beautiful chrysanthemums, pepper boughs and ferns, when Mr. and Mrs. George Bender and Mr. and Mrs. George Theodore Stamm entertained with a delightful supper dance about 80 friends of Ontario and Upland.

Music was supplied by Dossinger's orchestra and a most enticing supper was served towards the close of the evening.

The guests of the evening were Mr. and Mrs. John D. Howe, Mr. and Mrs. George B. Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. William Starbuck Fenton, Mr. and Mrs. Earl H. Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard B. Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. Welles T. Rose, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pierce Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. Leavenworth Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. Royal Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Earle Blakeslee, Mr. and Mrs. Corey White, Mr. and Mrs. Crombie Allen, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Grier, Mr. and Mrs. Earl M. Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Stearns Ingalls, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey O. Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. Tyler Reed Woodbridge, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Harwood, Mr. and Mrs. Robert O. Price, Mr. and Mrs. George Hall, Mr. and Mrs. George Byrd Ford, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Howard Payne, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund H. Granger, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Swift, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Field, Dr. and Mrs. F. M. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Harlow Scott Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin B. Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. Milton E. Titus, Dr. and Mrs. Jerome Titus, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Johnston, Miss Ala Ballou, Miss Maude Moore, Miss Olive Granger, Miss Harriet Grey, Miss Helen Fitzgerald, Miss Julia Rugg, Keith Johnston, Leonard Frankish, Albert C. Reynolds, Clyde Duval, William F. Rugg. The out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey T. Stamm, Mr. and Mrs. William Munper, Miss Florence Schoeffel, Dr. Victor Taylor and Fred B. Stamm.

Mrs. Isaac Honored—

A very pleasant birthday party in honor of Mrs. G. G. Isaac was given last Friday afternoon, Nov. 30, at her home. The guests spent a short while at fancy work, after which they were invited to the dining room, which was tastefully decorated in pink and green. In the center of the table was a large birthday cake, decorated with a spray of pink rosebuds and surrounded with "two score" pink and green candles. A dainty two-course luncheon was served by Miss Hulda. Mrs. George Keeney gave a reading, "Laska," which was greatly enjoyed by all. And Mrs. James Merchant read a poem composed by herself for the occasion, which follows:

To Our Neighbor and Friend
When "time" doth make you older
And silver threads on your brow
Will show;

Remember your friends and the love that's meant.
May your husband live long to smooth your locks,
As you sit by him and darn his socks;

And Irwin then to manhood grown,
Known afar for his kindness shown,
Will caress his mother, for this is his own.

Now Hulda sits on a stool near by,
As over the piano her fingers do ply;
She is always dressed neat,
And her music is sweet,
And her love for her mother is surely replete.

Just a few lines more and I must close,
Or all my ignorance I'll surely expose;
But there's one thing yet to tell,
With these (forks) serve your salad well.
Then remember your friends as "wishing you well."

We toast you today with water pure,
That comes from Old Baldy and is always sure;
So here's to your birthday of ten times four,
We hope you will live to see many more,
And this is really the end of my lore.

The guests then presented Mrs. Isaac with a set of silver salad forks. Those present were: Mrs. W. F. Dettweiler, Mrs. E. H. Haury, Mrs. Johnny McConkey, Mrs. J. C. Mehl, Mrs. George Keeney, Mrs. James Merchant, Mrs. O. V. Honstedt, Mrs. G. G. Isaac, Miss Hulda Isaac, Miss Eunice Dettweiler.

Dancing and Card Party—

The dance given by a section of the Women's club a short time since proved such a delightful affair, as well as successful, that the same ladies have decided to repeat the party, the next one to take place on Thursday evening, the 20th, at Rudy's hall. At this time five hundred will also be played by those who enjoy cards better than dancing.

Thanksgiving Party—

The spacious home of Councilman and Mrs. William Cavers on West Eleventh street was the scene of a gay Thanksgiving party last Thursday, when covers were laid for nearly thirty guests. The living room and hall were beautifully decorated with palms and chrysanthemums, and the patriotic colors of red, white, and blue. At 6:30 the large doors to the dining room were thrown open, revealing the tempting sight of two long tables, spread with delicious food for the waiting guests, the serving of the time-honored bird being the event of the three-course dinner. The following guests were the participants of Mr. and Mrs. Cavers' hospitality: Mr. and Mrs. Chadwick, Chino, Mr. and Mrs. Eagen of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. Close, Mr. and Mrs. Craig, Mr. and Mrs. Houghton and daughter Edna, Mr. and Mrs. Newman, Mrs. E. L. Jose, Mrs. J. H. Close, Mrs. A. D. Higdon, Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Coats, Miss Ruth Coats and William and Adair Coates, all of Pomona, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Bisbee and daughter Marian of Ontario.

Farewell Party—

A very enjoyable affair for the younger set was the farewell party given at the Y. M. C. A. building last Friday evening in honor of Messrs. Glen Kelley and Clayton Hockenberry, who left last Saturday to serve Uncle Sam in the navy.

Games both on the tennis court and in the building were indulged in during the evening. Those present were the Misses Naomi Koster, Mary Goossen and Luella Anderson of Upland; Grace Markham, Bessie Payne, Grace Markusen, and Flossie Bartholomew of Ontario; and the Messrs. Glen Kelley, Clayton Hockenberry, Earl Kitchell, Ralph Haines, Oliver Cory, Bentley Harmon, Fred Parry, Paul Haur, Herbert Hall and Paul Ames. Mr. Cleo Moser and Miss Mary Harmon accompanied the young people.

Merry Wives—

Mrs. W. C. Reynolds will act as hostess to the members of the Merry Wives knitting club on Friday afternoon of this week at her home on First avenue.

Woman's Council of Defense—

"The use of whole wheat flour does not commend itself at first to those who have been in the habit of using only white flour. In such cases it is a most excellent practice to begin the use of the whole wheat flour mixed with white flour. For those who are not accustomed to whole wheat flour, equal portions of white flour and whole wheat flour may be first employed. As the taste becomes reconciled to this mixture and the skill of baking it is acquired less quantities of white flour may be used. Finally the point will be reached when whole wheat flour, which is the most economical and wholesome wheat product that can be used will become entirely satisfactory."—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley.

"The dangerous practice of de-vitalizing our cereals by eliminating the germ and the bran goes on unchecked."—Dr. Harvey W. Wiley.

The following menus are suggested by Miss Olive Granger and Miss Margaret Jay of the local domestic science departments, for the local woman's committee, Council of Defense:

8 prunes, 192; one-fourth cup cream, 100; 1 teaspoon sugar, 20; total for breakfast, 741.

Tuna and potato scallop, 307; 2 slices bread, 200; 1 tablespoon butter, 100; salad one-half banana, 2 nuts, 2 tablespoons dressing and lettuce, 175; total for lunch, 772.

Swiss steak, 203; potatoes au gratin, 250; carrots, 150; bread, white, 1 slice, 100; butter or substitute, one-half tablespoon, 50; apple roll, 525; sugar for tea, 1 tsp., 33; total for dinner, 1278.

Total calories for 1 person, 2824.

Potatoes au Gratin—Make same as scalloped potatoes but sprinkle each layer and top with grated cheese, using tablespoonful.

Swiss Steak—Score on flank or skirt steak, sprinkle well with lemon juice and let stand for ten minutes to make tender. Rub all the flour into the steak it will take. Brown in a hot skillet with a little fat until very brown on both sides. Cover with hot water and cook until tender.

Carrots—8 medium sized carrots, 8 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons drippings, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cupful hot water.

Wash and scrape the carrots, cut in thin slices crosswise. Put the drippings into a skillet and brown slightly. Mix carrots with flour and salt, so that each slice is well coated with the flour. When the fat has browned, put the carrots in the pan and brown slightly. Add hot water and turn the flame low, or cook on the back of the range until tender—about 45 minutes.

Rice and Corn Meal Muffins—One-half cupful white corn meal, 2-3 cupful hot milk, 1-2 cupful cooked rice, 1-2 cupful flour, 2 tablespoons sugar, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 egg well beaten, 1 tablespoon melted shortening, 1-2 teaspoon salt.

Pour hot milk over corn meal and let stand five minutes. Add the rest of the ingredients in the order given and bake in greased muffin pans in a moderate oven about 25 minutes.

Tuna Potato Scallop—1 lb. can tuna fish, 1 qt. potatoes (prepared), 1 medium sized onion, flour, 1-4 cupful butter substitute, salt, pepper, paprika, milk about 1 qt.

Break fish into flakes, cut potatoes into lengthwise quarters, and slice thinly crosswise. Mince the onion and cover the bottom of the buttered baking dish with one-third of the potatoes. Cover this with one-third of the onion; pepper, salt, and a sprinkling of flour. Repeat until three layers are complete. Put fat on top, and fill to the top with milk. Bake for an hour until potatoes are tender and the top nicely browned.

Individual Apple Roll—6 medium sized apples, 1 pint water, 1-2 cups sugar, 2 tablespoons oleomargarine, rich biscuit dough.

Peel, core and chop apples fine. Roll out biscuit dough about one inch in thickness and spread apples over the dough. Roll up and cut across in pieces about 1-2 inches thick. In the meantime boil together the water and sugar for ten minutes. Pour this syrup into a baking dish and lay cut side down. Sprinkle each layer with a little nutmeg and sugar and place a bit of oleomargarine on top. Bake in a moderate oven for about 30 minutes. If desired two slices of lemon may be boiled with the syrup.

FIFTIETH STATE FRUIT GROWERS

A convention of great importance was held recently in Sacramento. The fruit growers of the state gathered to discuss old problems, always unsettled; also labor and other problems which are entailed by war conditions.

In his annual address Commissioner Hecke said:

"Beginning with its early history as a horticultural state, California, through her devotion to progressive ideas, has developed a system of efficient plant protection. From the pioneer days on her people have been eager to search out methods calculated to promote their various rural interests. As we look back over the records of the 49 conventions and realize the wide range of activities and note the constant and steady increase of duties of those in charge, commencing with the first convention held December 6, 1881, in this same state capital where we are now holding the 50th convention, we experience a warm feeling of the efforts of our pioneer predecessors.

"The first meeting, more than a generation ago, was called to order by Matthew Cooke, the first chief executive horticultural officer and the pioneer entomologist of the state, for the purpose of assembling the fruit growers and representatives of the various industries associated with horticulture. They had for their object a better understanding of what would be expected and required of their respective interests in the making and enforcement of beneficial laws for the protection of horticulture.

"The principle for which Matthew Cooke and his disciples contended is contained in the quotation, 'So use your own as not to injure others.' Their interpretation of this was to the effect that there should be no neglect of any known economical methods for preventing the spread of injurious insects and plant diseases from personal property to that of others.

"In addition to the regular duties of the state commission of horticulture, every member of the commission has felt it his and her duty to assist the state and nation at this critical period of national need. In cooperation with the University of California and the State Council of Defense we have taken an active part in the food producing and food preservation campaign; we have urged more planting and better cultivation, advised the best methods of pest control and started our vigorous campaign against rodents and weeds, to the end that our people may be enabled to better provide for themselves and all those engaged with us in this fight for the world's democracy."

MEDICAL MEN IN SESSION WITH THE SUPERVISORS

The supervisors were Tuesday apparently favorably impressed with the offer of the San Bernardino County Medical society to furnish without cost a complete staff of experts for the county hospital. Under the plan, as the committee from the medical society views it, there would be no occasion for the employment of a medical superintendent. Internes would receive the patients and summon the staff physicians or surgeons.

Following a thorough discussion of the proposal, a committee composed of Supervisors R. L. Riley and A. B. Mulvane was appointed to investigate the workings of the staff arrangement in other hospitals of the state.

The committee from this medical society included Drs. C. G. P. Hillard, T. M. Blythe, B. F. Church and Howard Hill, all of Redlands.

The medical society has already selected the staff of surgeons and physicians. It is planned by the medical society that the staff arrangements should be started when the transfer is made to the new institution, which is now practically completed.

KEEP THE TRACTOR IN GOOD ORDER

The tractor is as responsive to good treatment as an animal or any other machine. In the case of a great many machines the response to good treatment is not so noticeable. This is true because the tractor is a power-furnishing machine while the average farm machine consumes power. If the tractor is not just right in every way, it falls short in the production of power. This is sure to be very noticeable, as it is usually pulling a full load and only a small loss in power cuts down the amount of work done.

In the case of the power-driven machine, any disorder calls for greater power to operate it. The horses or the machine furnishing the power work harder and approximately the same results are accomplished. Hence it is much easier to overlook a slight indisposition on the part of a power consuming machine than on the part of the power producer.

If any part through which power is transmitted is loose, it may cause a reduction of power. The tractor operator should examine his machine thoroughly every week or ten days to prevent such loss. A bolt in the crank case is loose, oil is lost. The adjustment on a valve stem loosens, the valve is out of proper time and the cylinder does not give full power. The clutch is not adjusted to take hold evenly. Slipage here causes a loss of power. Similar leaks may develop in the fuel system and the ignition system. Any of these causes heavy drains on the power. Usually they can be quickly repaired if attended to early. Left too long, they may result in a breakdown involving a large repair bill and loss of much valuable time.

The throbs and rhythm of the tractor should be a part of the operator so that he detects the trouble in its earliest stage.—E. R. Gross, Colorado Agricultural College.

Historical Sketch

The founders of Ontario Colony were desirous that the colony should rank as an educational center. They accordingly set aside twenty acres of land at the corner of Fourth Street and Euclid Avenue, and in 1883 established upon this site the institution known as Chaffey College. This college fulfilled the purpose of its creation by affording superior educational advantages to the community until the year 1901, when the Ontario High School organized. From that year until 1909 the high school occupied the Chaffey building by arrangements with the trustees of the property. In 1909 the Board of Trustees of the Ontario High School purchased from the trustees of the Chaffey property a tract of five acres upon which was erected a new high school building.

In May, 1911, the citizens of Ontario and Upland voted by a large majority to form a union high school district to be named Chaffey Union High School District. Recognizing in this important educational movement the fulfillment of the desires of the founders of the colony, the trustees of Chaffey College property transferred to the Chaffey Union High School District the remaining eight acres of the Chaffey College campus, an endowment fund of $80,000, and a perpetual lease upon an adjoining seven-acre orange grove to be used as an experimental orchard in the Agricultural department.

August 25, 1911, the sum of $200,000 was voted for the erection of new buildings. Chaffey High School now occupies a group of buildings composed of the Liberal Arts Building, the Science Building, the Auditorium and Library Building, the Manual Training Shops, the Greenhouse, and Lath House, and the Plunge.

At a regular meeting of the Board of Trustees of Chaffey Union High School District, held Friday, August 11, 1916, a resolution was passed which definitely established a Junior College in the district. This is in accordance with an act of the California Legislature which states that "The High School of any school district may prescribe post graduate courses of study for the graduates of such High School or other High Schools, which courses of study shall approximate the studies prescribed in the first two years of University courses." A resolution adopted by the Chaffey Union High School Board follows:

"Realizing the fact that the leading High Schools of California have established post graduate courses popularly known as Junior College courses, and realizing that at the present time there are a large number of local graduates who are expecting to return to Chaffey Union High School to do postgraduate work; realizing further that a large amount of expense will be saved the patrons of the district, and recognizing the fact that the local equipment in laboratories and library will be ample for enlarging the work of the school, the Board of School Trustees of Chaffey Union High School District hereby establishes a post graduate department in its High School to be known as the Junior College of Chaffey Union High School District."

Following the recent Junior College legislation that went into effect July 27, 1917, the High School Board of Trustees re-organized under the provisions of the new law.

Evening Course in Electricity

A valuable new course in Electricity, under the auspices of the University of California has just been established.

In cooperation with the University of California the Chaffey Union Junior College offers an Engineering Course in Electricity. The class will meet Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock, commencing December 6th. Instructors from the University of California and from Throop Polytechnic College, assisted by Mr. W. W. Cushing of Chaffey, will give the series of fifteen lectures, under arrangement made with the University Extension Division.

This course will be extremely valuable for men and boys working with automobiles and farm tractors, as well as those engaged in electrical work. No special preparation in mathematics is required of the students, and anyone capable of benefiting by the instruction will be welcome to join the class. No tuition fee is charged, as special arrangements have been made to cover the expense.

Following are some of the topics to be taken up in the lectures, which will be illustrated as far as possible with experiments: Types of electric circuits, laws of current flow, calculations of power, heating, losses and efficiency, how to figure wire sizes, electro-magnets, motors and generators, methods of connection, characteristics, storage batteries, electrolysis.

CHAFFEY UNION HIGH LIBRARY EXCELLENT

This is an age of books and libraries. An age when men are more given to thought, perhaps, than in any other period of the past. True, all ages have been enriched by men who have brought forth books of high character, and by institutions that have accumulated them and made them accessible to the people, but there has never been a time in the history of the world when the output of good interesting and useful books would in any way compare with what it is today. All this, we believe, is having one great and lasting result, that everybody is learning, as Irving has said, "to know how dear these silent yet eloquent companions of pure thought and innocent hours may become," and they are also learning, more than ever before, how to study them in their own lives as well as helpful in their service for others. A few may think of books as so much paper, cloth and glue, more vehicles of printed words, but a large proportion of people in this day regard them as the products of concentrated effort, the vehicles of the best thought of master spirits. A high regard of this sort for worthy books is an enviable acquisition for any one. To possess it will assist in making life better, sweeter, and more enduring, and will likewise place within our hands a weapon by means of which we may more successfully overcome the wrongs of life that seem to impede our progress. With these ends in view the Chaffey Library is gradually extending its material self and broadening its field of usefulness. Every one in this community is more or less familiar with the fund that is giving it growth, how that fund came into existence and the manner in which it is being applied. But for others not so familiar with these conditions a few words of explanation will not be out of place.

The library may be regarded as the outgrowth of Chaffey college, a worthy institution in this community a few years ago. This college was founded in 1883 by Mr. George Chaffey who settled here in an early day and, being a great friend of education, took immediate steps to foster the educational interests of the community. It seemed desirable in the course of time to abandon the college as a distinctive institution, and to merge its interests into those of the Chaffey Union high school which was established later. This being done the residue of the college endowment which reached the sum of $80,000 became, through the generosity of Mr. Geo. Chaffey and his son, Mr. A. M. Chaffey, the endowment of the Chaffey library. To this endowment may be added an orange grove of seven acres, which is at this time being used as an experimental grove in the agricultural department of the school. The library is located on the site of the old college and the fact occupies the reconstructed college building. The library occupies the north half of the central building of the group while the spacious auditorium occupies the other half. The library consists of four rooms. One large room which serves as the public part of the library as well as a study and reading room, and three smaller rooms, one of which is used as the office of the librarian, the other two housing the periodicals and many of the reference books. The income from this endowment is devoted to the equipment and maintenance of the library and to increase its usefulness in the school and community.

The library is undergoing a steady growth and it is the desire of the management that all those connected with the school as well as others coming under its influence or interested in any way may be familiar at all times with the extent of this growth.

Five years ago the library had three thousand volumes on its shelves. It now has ten thousand volumes. No books for show, but books constituting a library which many, who have visited it, have pronounced one of the most worthy and useful libraries they have ever seen. Much care and thought is given to the balancing of each class of books to the demands of the school and community, while careful consideration is given requests of the students, teachers and patrons of the school for books not already on the shelves. The incoming of the Junior College has increased the demand for a higher grade of books in some lines than heretofore, while the needs of the various literary and teachers' clubs, of which there are five or six meeting regularly each month in the library, require due consideration along the line of their various programs.

The library receives about one hundred weekly and monthly magazines and newspapers, for which there is a great demand in the school, especially during these times of the great war. It is the desire at all times to have each department of the school represented in our list of periodicals as well as in the line of text and reference books which may be needed.

The library also offers a course of library instruction which gives the student some acquaintance with general library work. This work is under the direct supervision of those in charge and has already afforded a large number of students a more intimate working knowledge of books as well as a higher appreciation of what books may contain.

The library has come to be a great community center, an open forum, if you please, where the different organizations of the school and community may congregate. Here the business and programs of these organizations are conducted, especially such as contribute to the general welfare of the school and community life.

The high school and Junior college have a great future before them. As to the realization of this future there is no question. This will be brought about by the enterprise of the patrons of the school and the pride they possess in making the institution strong in physical equipment, and external beauty, as well as affording it the highest moral and intellectual support. In the realization of the future of these institutions the library will play a most important part. The constant growth which it must necessarily undergo will place before these schools facilities for study and research in any line of work that will be unequalled by other institutions of their kind. It is to the accomplishment of these ends that the library will put forth its greatest endeavors.

The people of the community are cordially invited to further their acquaintance with the library, visit it at any time they may desire, and use their influence to help it at all times to attain its highest degree of efficiency.

WILBUR A. FISKE, Librarian.

FERTILIZER EXPERIMENT BENEFICIAL

Passersby along Fourth street find much to interest them these days in the Chaffey grove; for they see on the first six rows of trees a few—yes, quite a few—orange on every tree. A rather unusual sight in this vicinity. That portion of the grove which faces Fourth street has been mulched for a period of two years. In all other respects it has been treated like the rest of the grove. But while the other trees in the grove share the common fate of the colony in having little or no crop, this mulched portion has quite a considerable amount of fruit. This much is one of the special features of the Chaffey fertilizer experiment, begun two years ago, and which it is planned to continue for a period of ten years.

It is too early yet to draw any conclusions, and the department of agriculture of the high school desires that the growers go very slowly about forming opinions from results already obtained. The next year or two may show an entire reversal of results to date. For example, while the mulch shows up exceedingly well at present, that is no indication of how it will look two years hence. The only definite thing that can be said at this time is this: The experiment is certainly worth careful watching from year to year.

There are other features in the experiment besides the mulch. The upper half of the grove has, for two years, been planted to cover crop. The lower half has had no cover crop. This year tomatoes were planted between the rows, and those growing in the portion where no cover crop has been grown have without exception made a poorer growth and a poorer yield than those growing where cover crop has been plowed under. In the case of certain portions of the grove, this difference has been very striking.

Another interesting feature of the experiment is the lime plot. For two years this plot has received the equivalent of two and one-half tons of finely ground limestone to the acre, while another plot, adjacent to it, has been treated exactly the same except that it has received no lime. To date these plots show absolutely no difference in growth of cover crop or tomatoes, or in growth or yield of orange trees. Here again it must be borne in mind that the experiment has continued for two years only. No claim is made that the results are as yet definite in any respect. But in a community where hundreds of dollars are being spent for lime, the results are worth watching.

It has frequently been urged by ranchers and others that the high school should hold a field day when the community would be invited to see the results of these experiments. Two years, however, is a short time in which to draw definite conclusions. They are apt to be misleading. However, a cordial invitation is always extended to all members of the community to go over the grove and watch the experiments from time to time. Mr. Booth, of the agricultural department, and Mr. Richard Smith, who has charge of the care of the grove, are on hand at all times and will be at the service of any one interested in having the different features of the experiment pointed out.

Student Farmers

A large number of the Chaffey students are planning on doing their bit next year in the matter of food production. Many of the boys have already signified that they have taken time by the forelock and are getting their ground ready for the spring planting. Several of them are counting on putting in such crops as require attention during the spring and early summer months, thus leaving them free to work in the canneries, or wherever they may be most needed, during the busiest portion of the summer. In all of this work which they do at home they will, if they so desire, have the hearty cooperation of the agricultural department.

Chaffey Campus

Under Mr. Smith's watchful care improvements have been constantly made in different parts of the campus. A large number of new shrubs have been put into position and dozens of climbing vines have been planted about the building. Additional trees have been set out, and ground has been put in shape for still more shrubbery, to be planted this winter as soon as the rains begin. Thus, year by year, the campus grows in beauty. The students who are here every day do not notice any change; but the old graduates who return after an absence of a year or two always re-

STATE LABOR OFFICIAL VISITS UPLAND

Edward J. Sullivan, representing the State Public Employment Bureau of Los Angeles, is spending a few days in this city and district investigating labor conditions, as well as interesting employers in the work of his department. Mr. Sullivan is a well known writer and a student of social and economic problems and made a life-long study of these subjects in his world-wide travels, having visited all the great labor exchanges in Europe and the United States. He was especially chosen for the work in which he is engaged because of his sympathetic interest and intimate knowledge in the work. Mr. Sullivan has had the distinction of serving this nation in foreign lands in the diplomatic and consular service and rendered a nation great service both diplomatically and commercially. He had the confidence and knowledge of presidents, Harrison, McKinley and Roosevelt. He is the author of several books on travels as well as on labor and economic problems. When Hiram W. Johnson was governor he selected Mr. Sullivan for the promotion of the work of the public employment bureau in eight counties in Southern California and to his untiring and unselfish efforts is largely due the great success the bureau has achieved in the Los Angeles district.

He is enthusiastic over the marvelous success they are meeting with, and instances the fact from January 1 to November 1 of the present year they successfully filled 50,000 positions in the Los Angeles district. Mr. Sullivan says that "the public employment bureaus are marks about it."

Chaffey Poultry

The pens of poultry on the Chaffey campus attract little attention; but some very interesting records are being collected. Trap-nesting has been carried on for a year, and the champion hen of the flock has during this time produced a total of 250 eggs. It is needless to say that this is a really unusual record. From these trap-nest records the best fowls will be selected, and the quality of the flock thus built up from year to year.

among the greatest asset the state of California can boast of. They are growing in popularity daily. During the year the bureau has rendered invaluable service and grappled with the acute labor conditions which have prevailed in a manner worthy of the highest commendation. We have saved millions of dollars to the farmers and fruit growers in the saving and harvesting of their crops, and incidentally saved workmen and women hundreds of thousands of dollars by their not being compelled to pay fees to privately conducted employment agencies.

"In 1916 the privately conducted employment agencies collected $454,447.42. "The year ending June 30, 1917, the Los Angeles district filled 55,036 positions at an average cost of 47 cents. Fifty-eight private agencies' reports show the average cost per job was $2.02, or a saving of $1.55 per job in favor of the public employment bureaus. In addition to our industrial department we have one of the largest, most efficient and best conducted commercial departments in this state and are furnishing the largest employment in Southern California with commercial help from executive positions to clerks, stenographers and salesmen. We desire to impress on employers the advantages that will accrue to them by patronizing that branch of the bureau, thereby securing efficient help as well as saving employees the cost of obtaining a position."

Central California

Lima bean growers have now been paid six cents per pound, with other payments yet to come. Deputy State Commissioner Weldon and County Commissioner Mills of Butte county are discussing standardizing oranges and the orange pack with citrus growers of Butte county.

Eldorado county irrigators are holding meetings for a proposed irrigation district. The present problem is to determine the boundaries of the district.

Southern California

Five hundred grammar graded and high school pupils of Orange county are still working in walnut orchards. The state reclamation board has ruled that land owners in Butte county rice fields shall regulate the flow of waste water so that not to exceed 500 second-feet shall run into Sutter Basin.

WHO'S WHO—AND WHAT FOR

The Truth—But Not All of It—About Yourself and Your Neighbors

E. W. PAUL

Until November 7th, 1917, E. W. Paul came under the general head of bachelor and the latest definition of a bachelor reads as follows: A man who thus far has heroically refrained from making some beautiful woman miserable.

But Cupid won out and on the above date Mr. Paul took unto himself a wife, after coming to the conclusion that "man was not meant to live alone."

Earl Wheeler Paul was born in Harrisburg in 1879 and when still a youngster came with his parents to California. He graduated from Chaffey college in 1896 and from the Western university of Pennsylvania in 1900. After being superintendent of the Ontario Power company here Mr. Paul returned to Pennsylvania where he engaged in the electrical business as an electrical engineer. Following the death of his father, Col. Jas.

L. Paul, Mr. Paul returned here to take charge of the Paul citrus orchards and other interests.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul will return within a few weeks from the East and will then be at home in their new home on North Euclid, now in course of construction. The accompanying photograph was taken against Mr. Paul's will but The News staff photographer caught him just as he was about to enter his automobile.

F. H. MANKER

When there is work to be done in behalf of the city send for F. H. Manker.

This has been so for twenty years or more, and while there have been many men who have spent considerable time working for the general good of the town, there probably isn't a man here who has been at it consistently and persistently for the same length of time.

F. H. Manker gave to this town its efficient fire department; he was assisted by many men, but from the time Upland had a two-wheel gig with a few feet of hose as its only fire-fighting apparatus, Mr. Manker labored in behalf of better protection from fire.

Mr. Manker was born "some place in Illinois," but at the age of one he decided that his family should live in Nebraska where he attended the little red school house on the hill. At the age of fourteen he came to California. First located at Pasadena and soon after became a resident of Elsmore.

San Francisco was the place where Mr. Manker learned the paperhanging and decorating trade and for many years has been a member of the Sikes-Manker firm here.

In 1893 Mr. Manker was united in marriage to Miss Adda Bradford and today Mr. and Mrs. Manker have a family of four robust sons and one accomplished daughter, all of them making good in their respective vocations.

We present herewith Upland's fire truck well loaded with members of the fire company, city officials and ex-city officials. Reading from left to right the men in the picture are H. H. Plum, ex-Councilman C. V. Lambringer, F. C. Froehde, City Treasurer M. F. Palmer, Elden Atwood, G. M. Atwood, H. C. Moore, L. Kronmeyer, driver; L. N. Kirk, E. C. Mehl, assistant chief; Mayor Woodbridge, Chief Manker, Howard Holmberg, Councilman J. F. Anderson, Councilman A. H. Johnson, Mr. Baird, representative of the American La-France company.

Death of Little Gordon Norman
While hunting with Angel Corona, 14 years old, Gordon Norman, 10 years old, son of Wm. H. Norman, was killed in a field south of the North Cucamonga postoffice Friday afternoon. He was shot through the neck with a shotgun, evidently at close range, as the shot did not scatter. At the inquest the Corona boy told several different stories and is now being held at the detention home in San Bernardino while officers are trying to disentangle the mystery of the boy's death.

The funeral was held from Draper's chapel Monday morning. Funeral services were in charge of Revs. Chafe, Gortner, and Kinne. Music was by the Methodist choir.

Union Mission
The union meetings, at the Union Mission, have begun. The evangelist, M. Ellis, of Texas, found it impossible to come for the Sunday evening meeting, so Rev. C. J. EXPERIENCED HIGHWAY CONSTRUCTION MEN WANTED FOR SERVICE IN FRANCE

Men who have had experience in any branch of road construction are offered an opportunity to see early service in France in special road-building battalions of the United States army by recruiting plans here announced by Captain L. W. Cummings of the 23d Engineers, at 729 Central Building. These battalions will be required to repair and maintain the highways near the fighting front, over which tremendous traffic is operated continuously. They will also build new strategic highways in the war zone.

The new battalions are constituted as regular military units and as a part of the regular army organization. They are fully armed and will be required in emergencies to fight along with other troops. Generally, however, they will be occupied with road work.

The battalions will form a part of the 23d Regiment of Engineers of the new national army. This regiment will eventually have a strength of about 10,500 men—more than an ordinary brigade—and will also so far as is at present known, be the largest in the army. It will be commanded by Col. E. N. Johnston of the Corps of Engineers, U. S. A.

There will be more highly-paid and high-ranking non-commissioned officers in the regiment, it is believed, than in any other. There will, therefore, be more openings for men of education and practical experience than is usually the case.

Who Can Qualify:

For the non-commissioned officer positions men are required who can qualify in private life in the following lines: Superintendents and assistant superintendents of highway, bridge and quarry work, of mechanical plant and of transportation; chief clerks, material men, stock men, timekeepers; foremen for concrete, road, bridge and quarry work, powder men, riggers, carpenters, iron workers, surveyors, and draftsmen.

For the enlisted personnel it is desired to secure men skilled and experienced in one or more of the following occupations: Surveyors, draftsmen, clerks, stenographers, axmen, blacksmiths, blacksmiths' helpers, machinists, gas engine operators and repairers, crusher operators, hand drillers, drill runner (air drills), quartermen, powder men, masons, teamsters, pile driver operators, concrete, form, road and bridge men, tractor operators (gasoline), grader operators, (blading and elevating graders), bridge carpenters, motor truck drivers, chauffeurs, cooks, motor truck and automobile repairmen, pipe fitters, electricians, horseshoers, tailors, shoemakers, musicians (bugle, fife or drum), mechanics, telephone operators, steam fitters, tool sharpeners, ditchers, boatmen (builders and caulkers), shovel runners (gasoline), barbers, veterinarians, French interpreters, bituminous road men, iron workers, riggers, general utility men capable of driving automobiles, motor trucks and all types of gasoline-driven machinery.

Any male American citizen between 18 and 40 years of age, and who has not actually been called by a local board in the draft is eligible for enlistment in these special battalions, if acceptable physically. All men must first enlist as privates, the rate of pay being $33 per month and expenses. Men with the necessary experience may be assigned to special duties upon arrival at camp, and given non-commissioned rank according to their qualifications at rates of pay ranging from $40.20 to $96 per month and expenses. The latter include, for both privates and non-commissioned officers, food, clothing, medical attendance and transportation. Those who enlist will be eligible for promotion, according to their ability and as openings occur.

Where to Apply:

Men desiring to enlist should apply at 729 Central Building, Los Angeles, Cal., and present at letter of recommendation from an employer and a release from a draft board if within draft age. Full information can be had at the above office.

HUGE BUILDINGS FOR OFFICES AT WASHINGTON

One of the manifold problems presented by the war is that of furnishing adequate office accommodations for the thousands of additional officials, clerks, and other federal servants who are pouring into Washington. The government is exercising its prerogative in this conveniently located office buildings and apartment houses with a free hand. In addition it is erecting huge temporary structures for use as offices, and in the building of these contractors are breaking time records for construction work. A building to house the six hundred officials and clerks of the Council of National Defense, containing more than 100,000 square feet of floor space, was erected and fully equipped in fifty-three days. Similar buildings nearby are for the use of the forces of the food administration, fuel administration, and army ordinance. Work is well under way on a mammoth structure which will cover three city blocks to house the overflow of the war and navy departments, the contract for which calls for completion in four months.

By these methods the government keeps in advance of its actual needs. At the present rate of increase the usual 35,000 federal employees in Washington will be more than doubled if the war continues another year. Workers of all kinds are being appointed, stenographers and typewriters and draftsmen for the service generally, and what are known as schedule clerks, index and catalogue clerks, clerks qualified in statistics or accounting, and clerks qualified in business administration for the ordinance department of the army, being in great demand.

Representatives of the federal civil service commission at the post-offices are the official recruiting agents for the great civilian army, an army of a half million behind the men behind the guns.

HUMUS

A fund of valuable information as to fertilizers for citrus trees is gathered in Circular 171 by Dr. W. P. Kelley of the Riverside Citrus Experiment Station. Regarding the importance of humus Dr. Kelley says:

The most important consideration in the fertilization of citrus in California relates to the organic matter of the soil. The virgin soils are commonly low in organic matter and the tendency is ever toward the loss of this constituent. The forces which bring about decomposition of soil organic matter are stimulated by the more favorable conditions which ensue as a result of cultivation and irrigation; the temperature and moisture conditions are suitable for rapid decomposition throughout the main part of the year. Consequently it is necessary to put forth special effort, if the organic matter be maintained.

Suitable physical conditions in soils are of great importance, without which no amount of fertilizer or other soil treatment can be expected to produce maximum effects. But the maintenance of suitable physical conditions in a soil is more dependent on the presence of decaying organic matter than on any other factor. Likewise favorable chemical and active biological conditions in soils are vitally dependent on the presence of organic matter. In fact, organic matter is the life of a soil.

As a means of supplying organic matter, leguminous cover crops are recommended. It is well known that legumes have the power of fixing nitrogen from the air and thus adding it to the soil, but it is doubtful whether the value of a cover crop can be adequately estimated by its nitrogen content. The effects of decaying organic matter on the soil itself are probably of as much importance as the actual nitrogen added from the air. Leguminous cover crops undergo rapid decomposition, leaving the soil in a physical and chemical condition that is better suited to plant life. In order to avoid bad soil conditions that may otherwise arise, it is recommended that, wherever possible, the cover crop be incorporated with the soil not later than the middle of March.

A second important means of replenishing the organic supply of soils is by the use of manure, and almost every orchardist, whether he be a citrus, walnut, or deciduous fruit grower, should put forth increased effort to enlarge and conserve his supply of manure.

In general the greatest value to the soil will result from plowing down the manure as soon as possible after it is applied, but no hard and fast rules can be laid down regarding the time of application or the amount to be applied. As a general rule, better soil conditions result from making the application early than late in the season, and the amount available together with its cost will rarely permit the grower to use an excess. Ten cubic feet per tree may be considered to be a reasonable application.

Manures differ widely both in composition and in their effect on soils. The rates of decomposition likewise differ widely. Generally speaking, the more straw, sawdust, shavings, etc., a manure contains, the more slowly it will undergo decomposition, and just as in the case for cover crops, manures cannot be adequately valued by their plant food content. The nitrogen content of manure gives to it special value for California soils, but too much stress should not be placed on the analysis of manures, for it is beyond doubt that the effects produced by this material are often not proportionate to the plant food content. The soils need to be enlivened with decaying organic matter, and manure is a valuable material for this purpose.

Another important source of organic matter is found in bean straw and alfalfa hay, but in view of the value and need of these materials as stock feed at the present time, the citrus growers are advised to make use of winter cover crops and manures instead. However, bean straw and alfalfa hay are valuable materials for use on citrus soils. The high nitrogen content makes it possible to supply a liberal amount of this element along with the organic matter, and the fact that these materials undergo rapid decomposition, insures rapid nitrification and therefore prompt availability.

COOPERATING

Personal independence is a fine thing as long as it is intelligent. Lacking intelligence, it becomes the characteristic quality of the mule. Men who are masters of their own affairs are more interested in doing the right thing than in doing the independent thing. The man who says this week that he will eat what he pleases and would like to see any one make him sign the food pledge, is doing more than his share to make sure that no food shadings will be necessary next week to force a limited diet. Usually he does not have any notion of where he gets his food beyond the fact that he buys it and now has the price. If he should still have the food, next week, he will be still indignant, but entirely helpless.

We must expect to find people like this, who refuse to sign food pledges, but we should not be discouraged. It is all a matter of education. We have all had to be educated on all sorts of public subjects. Some of us have never learned anything except through necessity. We have supported schools, not because we knew that schools were good for our communities, but to save our property from being sold for taxes. Many others of us have had to support roads and parks and other public enterprises in the same way. But the great mass of people do public things in a public way and do not think they are giving up their independence in cooperating.—Fresno Republican.

FERTILIZE

With the present high prices it is going to prove highly profitable to use fertilizers liberally this year. Moreover, to fertilize so that every acre shall produce more than in the past is highly patriotic since it helps to feed the nation and its Allies. Such is the point of view urged by the State Council of Defense.

More nitrogen and more organic matter in the soil is the foremost problem of the California farmer, says Prof. C. B. Lipman in a paper on "Fertilizing California Soils for the 1918 Crop," just issued by the state university.

Here are the best ways to increase organic matter: The use of all available farm manure. The use in orchards and vineyards in the fall, and on summer fallowed grain land during the fallow year, of all available straw. The use of green manuring crops, preferably leguminous crops grown through the winter and spring and plowed under about April 1. The best are melilotus indica, vetch, and burr clover. The plowing under of weeds, beet tops, and prunings from trees and vines, especially in the fall of the year. The use of straw mulch to prevent excessive oxidation of the organic matter which results from cultivation, and to bring organic matter into the soil. The best mulches are legume straws like bean straw or coarse alfalfa hay, but grain straw or rice hulls or farm manure may be used.

With the possible exception of the delta lands, potash fertilizer cannot be made to return profitable yields on arid California soils. Considering war needs and war costs potash fertilizers should not be employed during the war on California soils, save that on the delta lands or on some of the badly leached soils of certain portions of northern and northwestern California, where there is very heavy rainfall every year, potash fertilizers may be used to advantage if a cheap form like wood ashes is obtainable.

A CRITICAL EXAMINATION OF OUR WORK

after we have repaired your wheel, will show you what perfect work we do. Our skill in repairing bicycles is beyond competition for workmanship and endurance. If you are in our neighborhood and your wheel needs slight repairs, we will do it while you wait. Our prices are reasonable.

Bean growers of the lower Sacramento valley are appealing to the food administration for definite assurance as to future course in the bean market. There is assurance that the price of beans will be controlled, but no further statement being made, it leaves growers and dealers at loss as to how to proceed.

CAREFUL ATTENTION

to all details is what has given us such a reputation for thorough bicycle repairing. This has well been called the bicycle hospital. We certainly perform some operations that prolong decidedly the life of the wheels sent to us.

Studebaker

"Trade-In Sale"

This is the most important announcement regarding the sale of Motor Cars ever made in this territory—If you are interested—even remotely—in automobiles, you simply must read this.

Trade in Your Old Car—at a High Price

Beginning tomorrow morning at eight o'clock, we will conduct for an indefinite period the greatest "Trade-In" Sale in the history of this district. We want you to bring in your old car and trade it in for a new Studebaker. During this sale we are going to allow you an exceptionally high price for your old car—a price such as you never dreamed your old car would bring—a price that we never dreamed we would be able to pay.

Organization Makes This Sale Possible

We are enabled to pay exceptionally high prices for used cars because of our ability through the Studebaker organization to re-sell them at a high price. At a recent Studebaker meeting in our salesrooms, arrangements were made whereby each and every dealer in the great Studebaker family in Southern California will cooperate in re-selling the used cars taken in during this sale. That is why we do not fear to pay a good price for your used car, providing it is one of several standard makes.

Some Great Bargains

There will be some great bargains before the end of this sale, and we want you to "get in on them." You know that the Studebaker represents the greatest value in the motor car market and the 1918 Studebaker is the greatest of all, so—

If you have a used car, trade it in on a new Studebaker at a high price. If you haven't a Studebaker, come in and get acquainted with the 1918 model of "the car of superlative quality."
